Woodbine circle No. 41 had a very pleasant meeting with Neighbor Baker in the chair. All officers present except past chair. All officers present except past guardian neighbor. A number of the guards were absent, which makes it very unpleasant for the captain and the neighbors. We had two initiations. There were no cards for membership. Neighbors Thomas and Don were retained for next Tuesday evening on the entertaining committee. We had visiting neighbors from Silver Maple circle, who were welcomed with the circle honors.

On Wednesday evening last the Salt Lake degree team of the Order of Washington met the degree team from Ogden in a competitive drill. The decision, to the minds of the many present, was by no means a fair one. They insist that the Sait Lake team can rightfully claim the honors. While the Ogden team did good work, still there was something lacking. They omitted several of the figures of the drill which should be counted against them. This lack was not to be found with the Sait Lake team.

The evening was a very enjoyable one in every mice spread was also enjoyed in the dining-room.

We were more than pleased to see so many of the old warriors back to the reservation again and the palefaces are in danger when the warpaint is on. Members take notice that this council will meet on this reservation on the 21st Sun of Flower Moon. The warwhoop will sound at the Sth run of the sleep. There will be a lively chase, and all members will miss a grand treat that don't follow the hunt.

SUMMER PRODUCE COMING IN QUICKER

Berries Move Up-Cherries Down-Poultry Is Plentiful-Vegetables Cheaper.

TRADE has been exceptionally good during the past week in the fruit and vegetable market, the strawberry trade being the chief feature; the sale of these has been very good. By the end of the week the demand was greater by one-half than the supply, and they were very scarce. Saturday the price ran up to $2 per crate. The advent of summer is heralded by the incoming of summer fruit. Black cherries came in and are now more plentiful. The price has gone down from $2.50 to $2 and $1.50 per box. Pie cherries are worth from $1 to $1.50. Bananas cost between $2 and $3 a bunch. Apples have now been taken off the list, there being none worth eating in the market.

In the vegetable market the newest arrival is summer squashes. The wholesale price is 12 cents per dozen. Most of the commodities have been cheapened. Winprice is 12 cents per dozen. Most of the commodities have been cheapened. Winningstadt cabbage is now worth 3 cents a pound wholesale. Utah lettuce is down to 10 cents, the hothouse variety being worth 20 cents per dozen. Spinach can now be had for 2½ cents; asparagus, 7 cents; cucumbers range between 60 cents and $1 per dozen.

Dairy products became a little cheaper in the middle of the week, eggs going down $5.50. Butter is worth 21 cents a pound. Poultry, which was very scarce during the first half of the week, was plentful Saturday. All the Eastern Imported was sold out early in the day, but there was plentful or Utah livestock left. Live broilers are still rather scarce.

Fish markets have been doing good business all the week; prices are steady and the supply has been good. There is still no mountain trout, no shad roe and no sturgeon.

There has been no change in the grain markets this week. It is still too early for May wheat to be on the market, and the price of this still ranges from $1 to $1.25.

Everybody connected with "The Ham Show" is urged to be at the stage en-trance of the Salt Lake Theater today at noon sharp for the grand street parade, which will begin at that hour. All the automobiles in town, with chaufdentally, consulting engineer for the first division of the Japanese army, are registered at the Knutsford. They are on their way home, under strict orders to get there immediately. Ever since the beginning of the war these two gentlemen have been much in demand, so much so that cablegrams and secret service agents have been following them all over the country.

About a year ago they came over here to study American railroads, and in doing so became so immersed in their work that they left no address, and did not even report at the outbreak of the war. Accordingly, on May 1, the telegraph wires were set busy and secret service men sent out to hunt them up and send them home at once. They were finally run to earth, at the Brown Palace hotel in Denver, by a cablegram sent first to Washington, D. St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver.

"Yes, we were hard to find," said Col. "Yes, we were hard to find," said Col. Endo, "but we are on the way now. We were very lucky. We could not sail till the 19th of the month. That gave us time to look at some of the railways in the West."

Col. Endo went on to explain how their excess of zeal led them to out-stay their leave of absence. "We arrived in America a year ago May 1. We made up our minds to see all the railroads in this country. I would leave Nashville, Tenn., for example, by one road, and go to Atlanta, Ga. My friend Shibs would go another route, maybe by New Orleans. Then we would meet in Atlanta and compare notes. If we did not agree he would go my road, I would go his road, and then we would compare notes again. then we would compare notes again. We have been doing that all over America. It has taken time. We had planned to stay just one year, but it has been all so interesting that we stayed longer. My road in Japan is a branch road, and no, no, we have not moved any troops over my road, but maybe we will. We have been working West and arrived in Sait Lake today.
